The Mission of Soldier Hollow Charter School is to utilize place-based education to foster autonomous, lifelong learning through knowledge of and responsibility for the environment.

6:30 p.m. Welcome

Erin Merryweather: Anyone have questions regarding the reopening plan?

Question- Katie DeLahunta: Are kids changing classrooms in the middle school or are the teachers rotating through the classrooms?

Answer- Erin Merryweather: Students are changing classrooms, too difficult to move the teachers. Kids will be sanitizing prior to rotating out. Jamie Bennion: Each classroom has separate entrances and exits. Too complicated to have teachers hauling all of their materials around. We are prepared to adapt and change as needed.

Question- Pierette Magleby: Are younger grades still going to be “co-teaching” and trading off for subjects?

Answer- Jamie Bennion: All teachers will teach all core subjects with the exception of fourth grade. Other grades have the option of co-teaching science & social studies. Teachers in the younger grades will be switching classrooms, not students.

Question- Pierette Magelby: When and where are temperature checks taking place at school?

Answer- Jamie Bennion: Temperature checks will occur before entrance into the school. Different grades will have designated entrance points to the school.

Question- Ryan Taylor: Do we have any teachers that are concerned about coming back and teaching in the classroom?

Answer- Jamie Bennion: We have identified a few of our high risk teachers and are prepared to accommodate individual situations.

Question- Pierette Magelby: Have the teachers seen the in depth return to school plan yet?

Answer- Jamie Bennion: Just the teachers that have participated in the committee. We did not want to release too much information before submitting to the state and receiving approval. Unfortunately we have to be a little vague and remain flexible.

Suggestion by Ryan Taylor that we should find alternatives to the requirement regarding doctors notes for readmittance to school post illness. We are expecting more guidance from the county/state moving forward.

No further questions.
